£ •  SHORT STORY OF THE DAY.

••••••••••• ROUGH RIDER A WOMAN HATER

From the New York World.

When the time came for Dannie Dugan to part from his people and start for the pleasant surprises. First of all, his brother, Mickie, came home with a noble thirst, and was in such haste to quench it that he mistook the kerosene bottle for the family gin flask. His unhappy mistake necessitated the turning in of a hurry call for an ambulance, and a stomach pump. After the kerosene had been pumped out of Mickle, old Mrs. Dugan, for reasons best known to herself, induired in a fit of hys teries. To cap the climax, Dannie's sister, Mame, took him into the front room and made him put his hands on the Bible.
"Dannie, dear," said Mame, "I wants youse to swear on de good book not to disgrace, de family while yer down in Color..."

"Wot t'ell!" interrupted Dannie, "is yu givin' me, Mame? Des youse t'ink I'n goin' ter run from de bullets? Does ye

"No-no-dear," answered the girl, "it ain't dat. I knows you'll do yer duty in de scrap. Wot I fears are dem Spanish geirls. Youse know yer awint soft on wimmen, an' wot I fears is dat yer'll get sweet on one o' dem dago goirls an' marry her. Oh, Dannie, if yer brings any disprace like dat on de name of Dugan de blow would all but kill mudder, and I'd never hald up me head agin. Promise dat you won't do it. Promise me on de book. Dannie."

Dannie gave the promise with a laugh and was rewarded with a sisterly kiss. An hour later he started on his journey to the seat of war.

During the first eventful hour of the bat-tle at San Juan hill, Dannie Dugan's life was twice saved by Cawpuncher Grimes. "Grimes, me hoy, I'll never feran youse for plunkin' dat hast dago who had de bead on me wen me lanck was turned," said Dannie, "Yer a dead white guy and a bute at handlin' a gun."

Dannie. "Yer a dead white guy and a bute at handlin' a gun."

Before the historic day was three hours older a vagrant Mauser bullet tunneled its way through Cowpuncher Grimes left side and gave Dannie an opportunity to show his gratifude. It was a nasty wound, and at first Mr. Grimes expressed the opinion that it would be best to leave him in the trenches.

that it would be best to leave him in the trenches.

"I guess I've made my last gunplay," he said to Dannie, "The best thing you can do, old pal, is to shake my flipper and let me cash in."

"Cash in h-!!" growled Dannie, "I'm n-goin' ter carry yer back ter dem doctors an' have 'em putty up dat hole in yer liver. Youse toe good a partner for Dannie Dugan ter t'row down."

Grimes was in the hospital when Santiago surrendered. But a week later the surgeons decided that he was strong enough to make the journey to New York. Then it was that he sent for Danuie. When the latter materialized the wounded trooper raised his head from the pillow and put out his hand.

"Dannie," he said, "they're goin' to send us up to your town-to New York. You have been awful kind to me, and I want to square accounts somehow. I didn't know but what I might do something for you when I got back to God's country—to be ou when I got back to God's country-to-e message up to your people, or anything

"Grimesy, old pal," replied Dannie,

cise."
"Grimesy, old pal," replied Dannie,
"youse kin do me an awful good turn in old New York, You kin go ter my sister Mame an' square me wid de family."
"Sunare you, Dannie?"
"Yes, square me, Youse see, it's like dis:
Just before I left de folk's Mame she geis
me inter de front room, puts me flipper
on de Bible an' jollies me inter promicin
dat I wouldn't get stuck on any of dese sparish goirl's down here. Said it would disgrace de family name, an' all dat, Well, say, whin I gave Mame me promise I'd never seen de little Spanish goirl wot I found a-moanin' over her dead mudder out back of El Caney de udder mornin'. Dere sin't no use chawin' de rag over it. De fact is dat I'm dead stuck on Marie, an' as soon as dis d-d scrap's finished I'm goin'
ter take her to de church an' get spincel.
But, hully gee! I can't rest till I knows dat t'ings have bin squared wid me sister Mame, an' youse be's de only guy as kin do it, Grimesy, if I gives yer a letter interducin' yer to de family will youse try en' fix it up wid Mame so dat I kin bring Marie back widout dere bein' h-l ter pay for it?"
"Dannie, I reckon I'm what you Eastern-

Dannie, I reckon I'm what you Easterners call a woman hater. I don't like the female breed, an' it don't like me. I may make a mess of the job, but I'll do it.
